

Baby, it's Cold outside!

We had sloppy wet snow off and on all day! I love it when the weather is bad! It gives me time to get reacquainted with my quilt room. I was looking through my WIP and found the quilt I started last Spring for my newest granddaughter. I had pulled most of the fabrics but I had only three blocks sewn together. I don't normally cut everything I need all at once (how many times does it just not look like you thought it would). So I started cutting the rest of what I needed. Love that Easy Angle tool! Since I need 3 1/2 squares and HST's to match, it's a no brainer to cut the background from strips. The rest is scrappy of course, monkeys, kitties, dogs and bunnies to name a few with some crayon box colors to tie it together. Looks cute! I think I'll go sew!
